Latest innovation and ritual and it's no April Fool's joke

Sahaja Yoga consists mostly of SYs who for years have just been meditating, though some are shoe-beating their 11th left sandal, and a few permanently foot-soaking and fighting bhoots. And not to forget the majority who are witnessing, some still murmuring and a few busy spreading ugly rumors.

The vast majority of SYs are still shoe-beating, foot-soaking, buying chillies and lemons by the kilos. not to forget candles at bulk discount prices. It pains my heart that they don't seem to realize, despite professed enlightenment and dubious introspection, that in the Nirvichara and Nirvikalpa state no ritual is required.

Dear All,
i have just received the latest innovation for Maha Yogis of the great Adi Shakti who, despite years of kundalini awakening, have to still resort to chillies.

Howdy!

Can we have it patented? Maybe a book: 1001 Chilli Catch-Clearers To Enter The Kingdom Of God.

Now i am beginning to wonder what will happen to unrestricted fertile minds when Shri Mataji departs. When will all this increasing use of rituals be contained and ascend into Nirvichara and Nirvikalpa encouraged? When will we SYs learn that we are still at the kindergarten stage? When will we be weaned of all these external rituals and encouraged instead to harness the infinite power of the internal Mother Kundalini?

Just the mere attention on the chakra during meditation will rid most catches. Just try it. If it doesn't repeat a day or two, i have used this method of years and have always worked. My own ability to cure diabetes is proof. What more can i say?

But if SYs are enthusiastically encouraged to repeatedly resort to such innovations, then be assured they will take a long time to harness the very basic of their spiritual powers within. And the list of chilli catch-clearers is just going to get longer together with prized Mexican lemons and Gucci sandals.

regards,
jagbir
