

- Groups Home
- adishakti_sahaja... 14
- sahaja-yoga-resp... 1
- GospelofThomas 10
- ex-amma
- All My Groups
- Manage My Groups
- Create a Group +
- Browse Groups

- Terms (Updated)
- Privacy (Updated)
- Guidelines
- Feedback
- Help
- Blog

1 message waiting for approval

Conversations Photos Files About More

Membership Management

7 But 99.9999 % of the world still do not know that it is the Last Judgment

adishakti_org <adishakti_org@yahoo.com> Jan 4, 2003

I just came across an article regarding the positive reviews of the movie The Lord of the Rings: The Two Towers. (I immensely enjoyed part 1 of the trilogy and am waiting for video rental.) It gives the impression that all the positive reviews seems to reinforce message that 'true hearts' are enough to conquer evil. There are other box-office hits like Terminator II, Mad Max, The Blues Brothers and 007 but why for a film depicting three hours of violence, murder and mayhem? The writer's answer:

"Or maybe it's the message that half-dozen (or 2,000 or 3,000) good guys can defeat millions of bad guys, and more especially, that the half-dozen heroes will come through unscathed. So does Arnold Schwarzenegger, of course. Do we want to be told over and over that 'true hearts' overcome insurmountable evil? And children, of course, are the purest of pure hearts. So children are the hope of the world, not for the future, which seems reasonable, but right now against monsters, human and non-human. The child shall overcome. Do we really believe that, or do we just want to believe it.

Maybe it is a need to believe there is magic, or some powerful supernatural force of good that will combat a powerful supernatural force of malevolence. Is that why we are enjoying a plethora of movies and TV programs such as Touched by an Angel, Sabrina, Star Trek, and all those second-chance movies that bring someone back to Earth to right wrongs, or to enable someone to earn his/her place in heaven?"

We SYs are living and experiencing what the rest of the world fantasizes on celluloid and novels. It is the greatest adventure ever to be on Earth at its most crucial period, blessed by past lives righteously lived in defending Dharma in order to follow the Great Adi Shakti. We are the spiritual storm troopers spearheading the proclamation of the Last Judgment and Al-Qiyamah.

Yet for all our conviction (or lack of it) we are unable to tell others that the Adi Shakti has come "back to Earth to right wrongs, or to enable someone to earn his/her place in heaven." Can any SY or leader tell me why so hush-hush, feeble and hypocritical is the attempt to announce the Last Judgment and Resurrection?

Shri Mataji is now approaching 80 and will have to leave Earth one day. But 99.9999 % of the world still do not know that it is the Last Judgment. Years ago I was told by some SYs that Sahaja Yoga will spread once She leaves (so just give self-realization and not announce She is the Adi Shakti or it is the Last Judgment). That's so sad and pathetic.

jagbir

Reply Delete

Reply to this message...

See more posts from adishakti_org <adishakti_org@yahoo.com>

Read more

- From adishakti_org <adishakti_org... All
- So how am I going to answer Shrutu? | Re: I now ... Apr 08
- I now want to ask: "WTF is wrong with you?" Apr 07
- Shri Mataji and Her disciples. | Actually, I should ... Apr 06