Under attack: Israeli police hustle women and children away from the Western Wall in Jerusalem's Old City Friday, after Palestinians began lobbing stones from the Al Aksa mosque compound, which overlooks Judaism's holiest site. Four Palestinians were killed in subsequent clashes after riot police broke into the compound to disperse the stone throwers.

To die for Al Aksa: Defiant Palestinians confront Israeli riot police Friday at the Al Aksa mosque, Islam's third holiest site. The mosque is located on the Temple Mount, site of the ruins of Judaism's holiest temple.

Holy war: A wounded Palestinian is carried to safety on Jerusalem's Temple Mount. Friday's clashes underline the strength of competing religious passions responsible for the Israelis and Palestinians' failure to find a compromise on the fate of Jerusalem.

The pain of Jerusalem: A wounded Palestinian is removed from the front line of Friday's clashes with Israeli police on the Temple Mount. The rage expressed in this week's protests emphasizes the difficulty in resolving rival Israeli and Palestinian claims on the Holy City.

Days of rage: Scenes reminiscent of the Palestinian intifada, in Ramallah Thursday, as Palestinian youths challenge Israeli soldiers. It may be weeks before the current upsurge of violent protest is tamped down.
