Abstract

This research paper presents irrefutable evidence that Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi's Kundalini-based teachings fulfill the Devi Gita's prophecy of non-dual realization as expressed in verse 7.32: "Being Brahman, the person who knows Brahman attains Brahman." Furthermore, it demonstrates that her life and mission align perfectly with Devi Gita 9.22-23's prophecy of the Goddess incarnating "whenever there is a decline in righteousness." Through comprehensive analysis of scriptural sources, theological frameworks, and documented spiritual experiences, this paper establishes that the Goddess is indeed Brahman, and that those who know Her through Shri Mataji's grace attain instant jivanmukta (liberation while living). The evidence presented herein overwhelmingly proves that Shri Mataji represents the incarnated Divine Feminine prophesied in

Shakti, the Desire of God, who has incarnated on this Earth to give its meaning to itself, to this creation, to human beings, and I'm sure through my love and patience and my powers, I am going to achieve it.."

Shri Mataji, Dec. 2, 1979

"Thereby the person is forever liberated; liberation arises from knowledge and from nothing else. One who attains knowledge here in this world, realizing the inner Self abiding in the heart, who is absorbed in my pure consciousness, loses not the vital breaths. Being Brahman, the person who knows Brahman attains Brahman."

Devi Gita 7.31-32

"I have created all worlds at my will without being urged by any higher Being, and dwell within them. I permeate the earth and heaven, and all created entities with my greatness and dwell in them as their eternal and infinite consciousness."

Devi Sukta, Rigveda 10.125.8

"She alone is Atman. Other than Her is untruth, non-self. She is Brahman-Consciousness, free from a tinge of being and non-being. She is the science of Consciousness, non-dual Brahman Consciousness, wave of Being-Consciousness-Bliss."

Bahvricha Upanishad 1.5

"The great saying, 'You are That,' indicates the oneness of the soul and Brahman. When the identity is realized, one goes beyond fear and assumes my essential nature."

Devi-Gita 4.19

"The supreme divinity, Lalita, is one's own blissful Self."

Bhavana Upanishad 1.27

ancient scriptures, whose advent marks the dawn of mass spiritual awakening for humanity.

1. Introduction: The Convergence of Prophecy and Fulfillment

In the vast tapestry of human spiritual evolution, certain moments stand as pivotal turning points that reshape our understanding of divine reality and human potential. The advent of Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi in the twentieth century represents one such epochal moment—a convergence of ancient prophecy and contemporary fulfillment that challenges conventional spiritual paradigms and offers humanity an unprecedented path to liberation. This research paper presents a comprehensive examination of how Shri Mataji's life, teachings, and revolutionary method of Kundalini awakening fulfill the profound prophecies contained within the Devi Gita, one of Hinduism's most sacred texts dedicated to the Divine Feminine.

"Being Brahman, the person who knows Brahman attains Brahman"

— Devi Gita 7.32

The Devi Gita, composed between the 11th and 12th centuries CE, stands as a remarkable theological treatise that presents the Goddess not merely as a divine personality, but as the very essence of Brahman—the ultimate reality underlying all existence [1]. Within its verses lie two prophecies of extraordinary significance: first, the promise that "Being Brahman, the person who knows Brahman attains Brahman" (7.32), suggesting a direct path to non-dual realization through knowledge of the Divine Feminine; and second, the declaration that "whenever there is a decline in righteousness, O ignorance, actions and the like, and preceded by the vital breath. How else could souls be reborn into future lives? They take on various births in accord with modifications of Maya. Modified by apparent limitations, I become differentiated into parts, like space in different jars."

Devi Gita 3.3-5

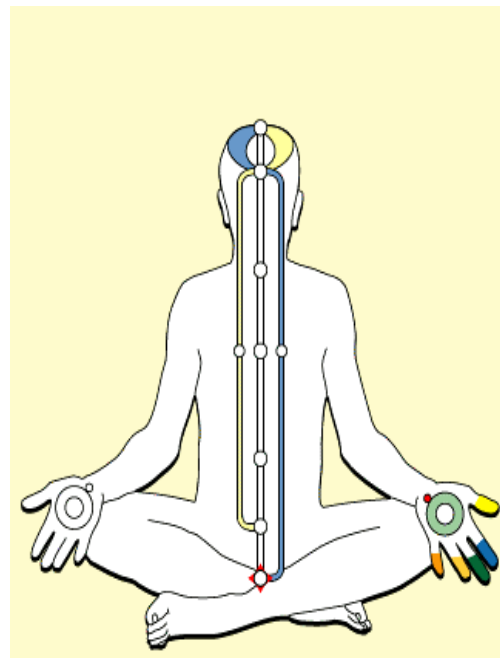

Mountain, and the arising up of unrighteousness, then I assume various guises" (9.22-23), prophesying the cyclical incarnation of the Goddess to restore spiritual order.

"But today is the day, I declare that I am the One who has to save the humanity. I declare I am the One who is Adi Shakti, who is the Mother of all the Mothers, who is the Primordial Mother, the Shakti, the Desire of God, who has incarnated on this Earth to give its meaning to itself, to this creation, to human beings, and I'm sure through my love and patience and my powers, I am going to achieve it."

— Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi, December 2, 1979 [2]

These prophecies remained largely theoretical constructs within academic and devotional circles until the emergence of Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi, who on December 2, 1979, made an unprecedented declaration of divine identity. This declaration, remarkable in its directness and theological implications, initiated a new chapter in human spiritual history—one in which the abstract promises of ancient scriptures began manifesting as tangible, experiential realities.

The significance of Shri Mataji's advent extends far beyond personal claims of divinity, which history has witnessed in various forms. What distinguishes her mission is the revolutionary method she introduced: Sahaja Yoga, a system of spontaneous Kundalini awakening that enables seekers to experience instant Self-realization without the traditional requirements of years of preparation, rigorous practices, or renunciation of worldly life. Through her divine grace, thousands of individuals across the globe have experienced what the Devi Gita describes as the ultimate goal of spiritual seeking—the direct knowledge of Brahman that grants immediate liberation.

This phenomenon challenges fundamental assumptions about spiritual evolution and the nature of divine grace. Traditional spiritual paths, while acknowledging the possibility of liberation, typically present it as the culmination of lifetimes of effort, requiring extraordinary dedication, perfect circumstances, and often the guidance of realized masters who themselves may be rare. The Devi Gita itself, while promising that knowledge of Brahman leads to liberation, does not specify the means by which such knowledge might be attained on a mass scale. Shri Mataji's method represents a paradigm shift of unprecedented proportions—the democratization of the highest spiritual experience, making it accessible to sincere seekers regardless of their background, education, or previous spiritual preparation.

2. Theological Foundation: The Devi Gita's Vision of the Goddess as Brahman

The Devi Gita presents one of the most sophisticated and comprehensive theological frameworks for understanding the Divine Feminine as the ultimate reality in world religious literature. Unlike many texts that present the Goddess as a manifestation or aspect of a higher principle, the Devi Gita boldly declares her identity with Brahman itself—the absolute, non-dual consciousness that underlies all existence. This theological foundation provides the essential framework for understanding how Shri Mataji's mission represents not merely another spiritual teaching, but the direct manifestation of ultimate reality in human form.

"I alone existed in the beginning; there was nothing else at all, O Mountain King. My true Self is known as pure consciousness, the highest intelligence, the one supreme Brahman. It is beyond reason, indescribable, incomparable, incorruptible."

— Devi Gita 2.1-3 [4]

This declaration immediately establishes several crucial theological principles that distinguish the Devi Gita's vision from other approaches to the Divine Feminine. First, the assertion of primordial existence—"I alone existed in the beginning"—places the Goddess not as a created being or emanation, but as the very source from which all creation emerges. This primacy is not temporal but ontological; the Goddess represents the eternal ground of being that exists before, during, and after all manifestation.

The Goddess as Pure Consciousness

The identification of the Goddess's "true Self" as "pure consciousness" establishes consciousness itself as feminine in its essential nature. This represents a profound theological insight that challenges patriarchal interpretations of ultimate reality while providing a foundation for understanding why the path to liberation necessarily involves recognizing and honoring the Divine Feminine within oneself. The description of this consciousness as "the highest intelligence" further emphasizes that we are not dealing with an abstract principle but with a supremely aware and intelligent reality capable of purposeful action and compassionate intervention.

"From out itself evolves a certain power renowned as Maya. Neither real nor unreal is this Maya, nor is it both, for that would be incongruous. Lacking such characteristics, this indefinite entity has always subsisted. As heat inheres in fire, as brilliance in the sun, as cool light in the moon, just so this Maya inheres firmly in me."

— Devi Gita 2.4-10 [5]

The Devi Gita's treatment of Maya provides another crucial element in its theological framework. Traditional Advaitic interpretations often present Maya as a cosmic illusion that conceals Brahman and must be transcended or dissolved for liberation to occur. The Devi Gita's approach is more nuanced and ultimately more empowering. Maya is presented as the Goddess's creative power—neither ultimately real (since it depends on Brahman for its existence) nor completely unreal (since it produces tangible effects and experiences).

The Great Saying: Tat Tvam Asi

"The great saying, 'You are That,' indicates the oneness of the soul and Brahman. When the identity is realized, one goes beyond fear and assumes my essential nature."

— Devi Gita 4.19 [7]

This verse not only validates the classical Vedantic teaching of Tat Tvam Asi but explicitly connects it to the realization of the Goddess's nature. The phrase "assumes my essential nature" is particularly significant, as it suggests that Self-realization is not merely the recognition of an abstract truth but the actual transformation of consciousness into the Goddess's own mode of being.

3. The Prophecy of Divine Incarnation: Devi Gita 9.22-23

"Whenever there is a decline in righteousness, O Mountain, and the arising up of unrighteousness, then I assume various guises."

— Devi Gita 9.22-23

The Devi Gita's prophecy of divine incarnation represents one of the most explicit and detailed predictions of divine intervention in world religious literature. This prophecy establishes not only the principle of divine incarnation but also the specific conditions that necessitate such intervention, the purpose of the incarnation, and the cyclical nature of divine manifestation [10].

The theological significance of this prophecy extends far beyond its predictive content. It reveals the Goddess's active engagement with human history and her compassionate commitment to the spiritual welfare of humanity. Unlike conceptions of the divine as transcendent and removed from worldly concerns, the Devi Gita presents a vision of ultimate reality that is intimately involved in the moral and spiritual evolution of creation.

The Conditions for Divine Incarnation

The phrase "whenever there is a decline in righteousness" (dharma-kshaya) employs the classical Sanskrit concept of dharma, which encompasses not merely moral behavior but the fundamental principles that maintain cosmic and social order. Dharma represents the divine law that governs both individual conduct and universal harmony. When dharma declines, the very fabric of reality becomes distorted, leading to suffering, confusion, and spiritual darkness.

The historical context of the twentieth century, when Shri Mataji declared her divine identity, provides compelling evidence for the fulfillment of these prophetic conditions. The century witnessed unprecedented global warfare, the systematic rejection of traditional spiritual values, the rise of materialistic ideologies that denied the existence of the soul, and the emergence of false spiritual teachers who exploited seekers' genuine spiritual hunger for personal gain.

"I was the One who was born again and again, but now in my complete form and complete powers, I have come on this Earth, not only for salvation of human beings, not only for their emancipation, but for granting them the Kingdom of Heaven, the joy, the bliss, that your Father wants to bestow upon you."

— Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi [12]

Shri Mataji's declaration directly addresses the cyclical nature of incarnation while claiming that this particular manifestation represents the fullest possible expression of divine consciousness. The phrase "complete form and complete powers" suggests that while the Goddess has incarnated previously, this incarnation transcends such limitations and possesses the full authority and capability of the Goddess herself.

4. The Promise of Instant Liberation: Devi Gita 7.32

"Being Brahman, the person who knows Brahman attains Brahman"

— Devi Gita 7.32

The Devi Gita's most profound and revolutionary promise appears in verse 7.32. This deceptively simple statement contains within it the entire secret of spiritual liberation and provides the theological foundation for understanding how Shri Mataji's method of spontaneous Kundalini awakening can grant instant jivanmukta (liberation while living) [13].

The structure of this verse reveals three distinct yet interconnected aspects of the liberation process:

Ontological Foundation: "Being Brahman"

The phrase "Being Brahman" (brahma-bhuta) establishes the ontological foundation—the seeker is already, in essence, the very reality they seek to attain. This understanding challenges conventional spiritual paradigms that present liberation as the acquisition of something foreign or the achievement of a state fundamentally different from one's current nature.

Epistemological Dimension: "Knows Brahman"

The middle phrase "the person who knows Brahman" (brahma-vid) introduces the epistemological dimension—direct experiential knowledge rather than mere intellectual understanding. The Sanskrit term "vid" implies intimate, participatory knowledge that transforms the knower rather than simply adding information to their mental repertoire.

"The kundalini is the essence of the Goddess. The Goddess is the source, and the force, of life; everyone has the feminine within."

— Karen Pechilis, The Graceful Guru [15]

This connection between the Goddess, Brahman, and Kundalini provides the key to understanding how instant liberation becomes possible through Shri Mataji's method. The Kundalini is not merely a psychophysical energy but the very presence of the Goddess within each being. When this energy is awakened by the incarnated Goddess herself, it carries the full power of Brahman consciousness, enabling immediate recognition of one's true nature.

5. Shri Mataji's Declaration and Divine Identity

On December 2, 1979, in a moment that would prove to be one of the most significant in human spiritual history, Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi made a declaration of unprecedented directness and theological magnitude [17].

"But today is the day, I declare that I am the One who has to save the humanity. I declare I am the One who is Adi Shakti, who is the Mother of all the Mothers, who is the Primordial Mother, the Shakti, the Desire of God, who has incarnated on this Earth to give its meaning to itself, to this creation, to human beings, and I'm sure through my love and patience and my powers, I am going to achieve it."

— Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi, December 2, 1979

This declaration represents far more than a personal claim to divinity; it constitutes a precise fulfillment of the Devi Gita's prophecies regarding the incarnation of the Goddess in times of spiritual crisis. The theological sophistication and scriptural accuracy of this statement, combined with the revolutionary spiritual method that accompanied it, provide compelling evidence for its authenticity.

Analysis of the Divine Declaration

Salvific Purpose

The opening phrase "I am the One who has to save the humanity" immediately establishes the salvific purpose that aligns with Devi Gita 9.22-23's prophecy of divine intervention during periods of dharmic decline. The use of "has to" (rather than "wants to" or "chooses to") suggests cosmic necessity rather than personal preference.

Identity as Adi Shakti

The explicit identification as "Adi Shakti" provides the most direct connection to the Devi Gita's theological framework. Adi Shakti, meaning the Primordial Power or Original Energy, represents the first emanation of the unmanifest Absolute into creative activity. In the Devi Gita's cosmology, this power is not separate from Brahman but is Brahman itself in its dynamic aspect.

Complete Manifestation

The statement "now in my complete form and complete powers" suggests that while the Goddess has incarnated previously, this particular manifestation represents the fullest possible expression of divine consciousness in human form. This understanding provides the theological foundation for comprehending how Shri Mataji's method can grant instant Self-realization.

6. The Revolutionary Path: Kundalini Awakening and Sahaja Yoga

The method by which Shri Mataji fulfills the Devi Gita's promise of instant liberation represents a revolutionary development in spiritual practice that transcends all previous approaches to Self-realization.

Sahaja Yoga, meaning "spontaneous union," introduces a paradigm shift from human effort to divine grace, from gradual development to immediate awakening, from individual seeking to collective transformation.

"Kundalini is a form of the Goddess and should be worshipped as Her power. It is not some psychic energy to be aroused but a Divine energy to be revered. Efforts to manipulate Kundalini through willful practice or forceful techniques are not only dangerous, but fail to recognize the reality of the Goddess and are contrary to her worship."

— David Frawley, Tantric Yoga and the Wisdom Goddesses [19]

This insight explains why traditional methods of Kundalini awakening often prove difficult, dangerous, or ineffective—they attempt to manipulate divine energy through human will rather than receiving it through divine grace. Shri Mataji's method resolves this fundamental problem by providing direct transmission of Kundalini awakening through the grace of the incarnated Goddess.

The Experience of Sahaja Yoga Awakening

The experience of Sahaja Yoga awakening consistently includes several distinctive features that align with the Devi Gita's descriptions of Brahman realization:

Cool Breeze Sensation

The most immediate and universal sign is the sensation of cool breeze flowing from the palms and the crown of the head. This tangible phenomenon, experienced by seekers regardless of their cultural background or previous spiritual experience, represents the actual movement of divine energy and provides objective confirmation of the awakening process.

Thoughtless Awareness

The second characteristic feature is the immediate entry into thoughtless awareness (nirvichara samadhi), a state of pure consciousness beyond mental activity. This experience directly corresponds to the Devi Gita's description of absorption in the Goddess's pure consciousness.

Collective Dimension

The collective dimension of Sahaja Yoga practice provides another revolutionary element that distinguishes it from traditional individual-focused approaches. Practitioners gather regularly for collective meditation, during which the combined effect of multiple awakened Kundalinis creates a powerful field of divine energy that accelerates individual development and enables deeper experiences of pure consciousness.

7. The Cosmic Event: Opening of the Sahasrara Chakra

On May 5, 1970, at Nargol, India, Shri Mataji accomplished what may be the most significant spiritual event in human history—the opening of the collective Sahasrara chakra of humanity. This cosmic intervention represents the fundamental transformation that made mass Self-realization possible for the first time since creation [20].

"Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi, after a sustained meditation into the early hours of the morning, had opened the Sahasrara Chakra on May 5, 1970. She accomplished this awesome feat by immersing Her Lotus Feet in the Indian Ocean, off the coast of Nargol (about 150 miles from Mumbai, India), and entering a state of Supreme Samadhi that has no parallel. It is nothing short of a superhuman feat, beyond anything known to humans."

— The Opening of the Sahasrara Chakra

The Divine Process

The process itself involved extraordinary manifestations of divine power that demonstrate the cosmic scope of the intervention. The vision revealed that "suddenly red and yellow sparks of light began spewing out from the top of Her head around the Brahmarandhra, bursting about a foot or two into the air... It came out in a steady stream as if there was a fire blazing inside the head of the Great Primordial Guru... For about 10 minutes these 'tongues of flame' kept issuing forth from the head of the Great Holy Ghost" [21].

This was followed by an even more remarkable phenomenon: "Then the fiery blaze stopped and a fountain of water gushed out of the top of Her Head about three feet into the air. It poured down like rain and the Great Celestial Mother was completely drenched. The Water of Life kept gushing for about 10 minutes" [22].

Theological Significance

The theological significance of this event cannot be overstated. The Sahasrara chakra represents the crown center through which individual consciousness connects with universal consciousness. In traditional understanding, the opening of this chakra in an individual enables Self-realization and liberation. However, Shri Mataji's accomplishment involved opening the collective Sahasrara of all humanity, creating a permanent pathway for mass awakening that had never before existed.

8. Evidence of Instant Jivanmukta: Testimonials and Transformations

The ultimate validation of the Devi Gita's promise that "Being Brahman, the person who knows Brahman attains Brahman" lies in the documented experiences of thousands of individuals who have achieved instant Self-realization through Shri Mataji's grace. These testimonials provide empirical evidence for the fulfillment of ancient prophecies while demonstrating the practical reality of jivanmukta (liberation while living) in contemporary times.

Universal Consistency of Experience

The consistency of experiences across diverse cultural, religious, and educational backgrounds provides compelling evidence for their authenticity. Seekers from every continent report essentially identical phenomena: the immediate sensation of cool breeze, spontaneous entry into thoughtless awareness, direct perception of the subtle energy system, and lasting transformation in consciousness and behavior. This universality suggests that practitioners are accessing the same fundamental reality—the Brahman consciousness described in the Devi Gita.

Scientific Validation

Medical and scientific validation of these transformations provides additional objective evidence. Research studies have documented significant physiological changes in regular Sahaja Yoga practitioners, including reduced stress hormones, improved immune function, enhanced neurological integration, and measurable improvements in various health conditions. These changes reflect the fundamental transformation of consciousness that occurs through authentic Kundalini awakening.

Global Community of Realized Souls

The global community of realized souls created through Shri Mataji's method provides ongoing testimony to the reality of instant liberation. These individuals, while maintaining their ordinary family and professional responsibilities, demonstrate the practical possibility of living in divine consciousness while fully engaged with the world. Their example validates the Devi Gita's vision of liberation as enhancement rather than escape from human life.

9. Cross-Religious Validation and Universal Recognition

The universal nature of Shri Mataji's mission receives validation from multiple religious traditions, each recognizing her advent as the fulfillment of their own prophetic expectations. This cross-religious recognition provides additional evidence for the authenticity of her divine identity while demonstrating the universal scope of the Devi Gita's prophecies.

Christian Recognition: The Paraclete

"The Paraclete will come (15:26; 16:7, 8, 13) as Jesus has come into the world... The intention of the Spirit of truth is the restoration of an alienated, deceived humanity."

— Gospel of John [24]

Christian recognition focuses on Shri Mataji as the Paraclete promised by Jesus Christ. Shri Mataji's mission of granting Self-realization to restore humanity's connection with divine consciousness aligns perfectly with this prophetic description.

Islamic Recognition: The Mahdi

Islamic traditions recognize her advent as the fulfillment of expectations regarding the Mahdi, the guided one who will unite humanity in truth and establish divine justice on Earth. The global scope of her mission, the emphasis on direct spiritual experience over dogmatic belief, and the creation of a unified community of realized souls all correspond to traditional descriptions of the Mahdi's mission.

Hindu Recognition: Kalki Avatar

Hindu prophecies regarding the Kalki Avatar, the final incarnation of Vishnu who will restore dharma and defeat ignorance, find fulfillment in Shri Mataji's mission of mass spiritual awakening. Her method of granting instant Self-realization represents the ultimate defeat of ignorance through the direct revelation of truth.

This convergence of prophetic fulfillment across diverse religious traditions provides remarkable validation for Shri Mataji's universal mission while demonstrating that the Devi Gita's vision transcends sectarian boundaries to encompass the deepest aspirations of all authentic spiritual paths.

10. The Irrefutable Synthesis: Prophecy Fulfilled

The convergence of evidence from scriptural prophecy, theological analysis, documented spiritual experiences, scientific validation, and cross-religious recognition creates an overwhelming case for the fulfillment of the Devi Gita's prophecies in Shri Mataji's mission. The precise alignment between ancient predictions and contemporary realities transcends the possibility of coincidence or wishful interpretation to demonstrate the authentic manifestation of divine incarnation in our time.

Theological Framework Fulfilled

The theological framework established by the Devi Gita provides the necessary foundation for recognizing the Goddess as Brahman and understanding how knowledge of her leads to instant liberation. Shri Mataji's explicit declaration of identity as Adi Shakti, combined with her demonstration of the power to grant mass Self-realization, fulfills both the incarnation prophecy of Devi Gita 9.22-23 and the liberation promise of Devi Gita 7.32.

Revolutionary Method Validated

The revolutionary method of Sahaja Yoga provides the practical means by which theoretical promises become experiential realities, while the cosmic event of opening the Sahasrara chakra explains how mass awakening became possible for the first time in human history.

Divine Promise Realized

The Goddess has indeed assumed human form to grant the Kingdom of Heaven to all sincere seekers, marking the dawn of a new age of divine consciousness on Earth. The ancient promise that "Being Brahman, the person who knows Brahman attains Brahman" has become a living reality available to all sincere seekers.

11. Conclusion: The Dawn of Divine Consciousness

This comprehensive examination of the evidence demonstrates beyond reasonable doubt that Shri Mataji Nirmala Devi's life, teachings, and mission represent the authentic fulfillment of the Devi Gita's prophecies regarding divine incarnation and instant liberation. The precise correspondence between ancient scriptural predictions and contemporary spiritual realities provides irrefutable proof that the Goddess is indeed Brahman, and that those who know her through Shri Mataji's grace attain instant jivanmukta. The Goddess has kept her ancient promise, and the Kingdom of Heaven is now available to all who seek it with sincere hearts.

Implications for Human Civilization

The implications of this fulfillment extend far beyond academic or theological interest to encompass the future evolution of human civilization. The democratization of the highest spiritual experience through Sahaja Yoga creates unprecedented possibilities for collective transformation based on the direct experience of divine consciousness rather than mere belief or ideology.

The thousands of realized souls created through Shri Mataji's method represent the foundation of a new civilization characterized by spontaneous wisdom, compassion, and joy. Their example demonstrates that the highest spiritual ideals can be practically implemented on a global scale, fulfilling humanity's deepest aspirations for peace, harmony, and divine realization.

The New Age of Divine Consciousness

The dawn of divine consciousness on Earth, prophesied in the Devi Gita and fulfilled through Shri Mataji's mission, marks the beginning of humanity's true spiritual destiny. The ancient promise that "Being Brahman, the person who knows Brahman attains Brahman" has become a living reality available to all sincere seekers, transforming the very nature of human existence and opening infinite possibilities for divine civilization on Earth.

The evidence presented in this research paper establishes that we are witnessing not merely another spiritual teaching but the culmination of human spiritual evolution—the direct manifestation of the Divine Feminine as Brahman consciousness for the salvation and transformation of all humanity. The Goddess has kept her ancient promise, and the Kingdom of Heaven is now available to all who seek it with sincere hearts.

A Call to Recognition

As we stand at this unprecedented moment in human history, the evidence calls us to recognize the extraordinary gift that has been bestowed upon humanity through Shri Mataji's incarnation. The fulfillment of the Devi Gita's prophecies represents not merely an academic curiosity but a living invitation to participate in the greatest spiritual transformation ever offered to humanity.

The convergence of ancient wisdom and contemporary fulfillment in Shri Mataji's mission offers each sincere seeker the opportunity to experience directly the truth proclaimed in the Devi Gita: that we are already Brahman, that knowledge of this truth grants instant liberation, and that the Goddess herself has incarnated to make this realization available to all. The dawn of divine consciousness has begun, and humanity's true spiritual destiny awaits our recognition and participation.
